At my grand Turkish Dress,
You may take a good view;
If my Name you can guess,
I will give it to you.

I come you see, from Germany.
Although I'm in this room;
So, if you like my country,
I beg you'le buy a broom.

In my gay Spanish Dress,
You do not know me yet;
So I'll dance, while you guess,
To the sweet Castenet.

With Gold and Silver Lace you see
I am dressed like a Greek;
If you know any more of me,
I beg that you will speak.

Italy is my native place,
I dare say you suppose;
You do not guess it by my face,
But only by my clothes.

That I was an English Girl,
You never did suppose;
But I am, and ever shall,
Be only plain Miss Rose.
